FIRST WRITING 2013

I want to write my first poem of 2013 that is so lovely
Thank you for everything you are pushing me this destiny
We hope that everyone will get better future and reality
Love will give us the best gifts that we ever hope for in purity.

Life is always a fierce battle that we have to fight even with our inability
The river of coldest temperature flows toward the uphill conformity
No matter how hard we try, we still don't have what we want dearly
Still, let pray and hope and do the best we can to advance to the next phase, bravely.
